My Spanish host family

I met my host family and my host Elvira on the bus station when we arrived from the airport. They took me by their car to the 3rd biggest shopping centre in Alcantarilla. We went to Tacobell, Dunkins... They also took me to the view point, where I could see the whole Alcantarilla. We met there with another Czech-Spanish pairs. Later at home, I got presents from them as a “welcome gift”. They also received a gift from me (salami).

On Monday afternoon we met as a whole Erasmus team in a shopping centre. We wanted to go to a jump park, but it was closed, so we took a tram to another shopping centre. As we got there, we separated into many small groups. We were in a jump park, laser game, fast food...

On Tuesday afternoon we decided to bake gingerbread. We went to buy some ingredients. My family doesn't cook so it was a bit hard and messy, but it ended well and with laugh.

On Wednesday afternoon they took me to a shopping centre where I met my Spanish-mate's friends. They were kind and friendly. We bought a lot of new clothes that I can't find in the Czech Republic, or it was just for a good price. We stayed there for a long time. It was really late at night.

On Thursday we met as a whole Erasmus team in the jump park. We bought entrance for two hours. It was silly. We also bought some junk goodies like Coca-Cola, donuts... Our Spanish parents were near, sitting together at table and chatting among themselves.

On Friday me and my Spanish mate went bowling. Later her friend joined us. We played too many games. There were many emotions in the air, like excitement, anger, sadness, joy. Some of us won some of us lost. Then we went back to our friend's house.

Saturday 7th February with my host family family

We woke up at 9 am. For breakfast we had Churros with chocolate and sugar. After we got ready, we met with two Czech-Spanish pairs in front of mall. We waited for their parents to pick us up. After a few minutes, they showed up in their cars. They took us to the sea.

The path was nice, smooth but long. Something around 30 minutes, maybe more. We arrived at the harbour. It was windy. We took a walk around the sea, while we were eating some crisps. We tried to teach our mates some Czech words, they did the same to us.

By walking we got to a small mall where we've been 6 hours straight. There were low prices, sales... We also visited a game shop. Spanish showed us their most popular games they have in their region.

When we got hungry, we bought burger king and sit around one table. The desert we deserved was a good chocolate ice cream. My Spanish mate liked one of the Czech boys we've been out that day, so it was a funny because that boy was very shy and red in the face. I couldn't hold my laugh.

As the sun began to set down, we decided to go to a someone's house. Their parents took us back by their car. We arrived in front of our Spanish mate's flat. He lives in a second floor, so it wasn't too many stairs, but we took elevator. In the flat, his dog came to greet us, it's a female. She was wearing a nice pink sweater, because she's the lady here.

We sat in his living room. We were talking, playing with the dog or playing some table games. Than came his parents and gave us strawberries. It was yammy.

As time went on I got bored, so I took a puzzle with 1000 pieces. While I was trying to put it together, the other kids were doing mess, but later they joined me and tried to help me. After 4 hours I decided to give myself a break. I was just walking around his house, nothing special.

For dinner we had two types of pizza and cola. We were telling jokes, because we ate a lot of sugar. Than at 10pm my mate's parents picked us up and drove us home. I got time to pack my luggage and have hygiene.

Than after all I and my Spanish family gathered together in the dining room, where I got so many presents for me and my parents. I started to cry there, because it was overwhelming. Than we went to have a small nap before my left. Next day we woke up early, got ready and then they drove me to the bus station where I hug them and said goodbye for the last time.
