During my exchange stay in Spain I had the great opportunity to live with a local host family. This experience was the most important part of the whole stay for me. The family welcomed me with open arms and I felt at home from the very first day. My Spanish family was very nice, and incredibly friendly.

The head of the family were the parents –mother Maria and father Marcos. My main guide and exchange partner was their son, who was named Marcos after his father. I spent the most time with him and he helped me find my way around the new environment and at school. The family was really big, because Marcos had two younger brothers. The younger of them was called Lucas and the youngest was Ugo. As soon as I arrived, I was greeted with typical Spanish hospitality. Instead of a formal handshake, I was greeted with a warm hug from Mari, Marcos' father and all three boys.

Marcos, my host, was very nice. He plays football, he likes to play games and watch series. At the beginning he was a little nervous with me but in the end, he treated me like a long-time friend I really enjoyed it with him I was glad he was my host.

Lucas was Marcos' younger brother he also played football and he liked to kick with us and play a lot of games from the beginning we had fun and laughed he was very nice and I really enjoyed it.

Marcos' youngest brother is Ugo, he liked to paint and watch movies. He went to kindergarten next to our school. We got along very well and it was fun with him.

Marcos' mother was called Maria. She was very nice and considerate to me. She cooked well and always took care of me. I was glad that she was the one who took care of me.

Marcos's dad was also called Marcos and he cooked very well too and was very friendly. He liked watching football and do sports
