My Saturday and Sunday and my host family

My host was called Salvador. When I arrived at the airport, my host family picked me up and drove me straight to their house. They gave me a full tour of the place before showing me to my room. After a quick rest, we went to a local swimming club for lunch. We had "Prego," which is a classic Portuguese dish—it was delicious.

Later

afternoon, we went exploring with the other kids from the exchange group. I was amazed by the observation deck at Cabo Girao we stood on; it was a massive 580 meters above the ground! When I was taking pictures, my heart was racing because I was scared, that I would accidentally drop my phone and lose it. By mid-afternoon, we decided to just head home and relax. Salvador and I played video games for a while. For dinner, we had spaghetti with prawns, and since I was extremely tired because I had only slept for like, 1 hour, I barely slept in the airplane, I went straight to bed right after.

On Sunday after breakfast, I went with the family to watch Salvador's handball match, which was actually really fun to see. When the game was over, we went back home and just rested for a bit.

Later, we went to the park for some fresh air, I played football with Salvador, and we got some ice cream. We were so exhausted so we just rested for the rest of the day, and Salvador's mum made a delicious beef steak for dinner. In the evening, I played more video games with Salvador and his brother, and since I was so tired, I went to bed, and fell asleep like, 1 minute later 😊.
